Last year, more than 75 children were killed in accidents involving improperly restrained children, and many more were injured. A couple of years ago, President Obama asked America to help improve road safety by 10 percent by the end of his first term. In May, the President announced an important step forward. Today, the White House is announcing new voluntary national standards for children's car seats and booster seats. The standards are critical. About 20 children die every day in motor vehicle crashes, and over half of those deaths are because of crashes in which the child was not secured properly. The standards are a good first e79caf774b
